Gays must speak out

Not much can be found in the metropolitan newspapers in Los Angeles regarding homosexuals.

Yet if you pick up a copy of the Advocate, a homophile publication, you would find a completely different story.

The headlines range from beatings of gays by the LAPD, entrapment and demonstrations, to raids on local gay bars and legal cases involving pro-vice and discrimination against homosexuals.

A large portion of the homophile community, such as Gay Liberation Front, have had their fill of oppression and have organized themselves to combat their third-class citizenship. But, they remain a minority within a minority group.

The majority of the gay minority group continues to conceal their ho-

Its final report issued in October of 1968 recommended laws against acts between consenting adults in private be abolished, and that blanket employment discrimination against homosexuals be ended.

The Nixon administration repudiated the Hooker Report as it did the report on Obscenity and Pornography.

At this point my concern is not with what Uncle Sam thinks. I'm more concerned with the country and state, the city, the community where I live, the college I attend and the people I come in contact with every day. It is here where change will begin.

Many straight students concur with the idea of gay liberation but will they accept a gay student in their midst? That question will have to be answered on an individual basis according to what each of us believes after the question has been studied.

...personality in order to conform to the demands of a heterosexual world. ... seems to be the controlling factor that governs the gay alien identity. Fear of losing their jobs, friends and respect. From my point of view this fear only leads to losing their own self-respect.

For many years psychiatrists and psychologists maintained that homosexuality was a character disorder but in light of recent research and reports on homosexual behavior many psychiatrists see homosexuality as a life style rather than an illness.

Dr. Robert Spitzer, formerly of the National Institute of Mental Health, has found on his

Many of the leading colleges and universities in Southern California have Gay Liberation Front (GLF) chapters yet LACC has remained virtually untouched.

GLF/LA has recently moved to a new location and have established a Gay Service Center. The center is located at 4400 Melrose Avenue, two blocks west of the tennis courts, and is open to all regardless of race, creed, color or sexual preferences.

GLF has plans of becoming more involved at LACC, according to Chuck Avery, a spokesman for GLF/LA. GLF welcomes all interested persons to stop by the center should you have any questions about homosexuality, GLF or GLF/LACC.

GLF/LACC is still in the planning stages but not for long according to a LACC student who is currently organizing a chapter here at LACC. This student states the aims of the organization are not political but rather to help create a better understanding and acceptance of homosexuality and to work towards a working relationship with a troubled world.

It is my belief that if we as people can learn to live together then we can work together. In working together we can achieve the long overdue closing of the minority gaps.

Homosexuals should get rights

Sex researchers are beginning to realize that homosexual behavior can be as varied as heterosexual conduct. Not all homosexuals live a life of one night stands in bathhouses and gay bars. Some homosexuals live together in stable, often long-lasting relationships, as has been the case with two such men who recently appeared in an article in Look entitled "The Homosexual Couple."

Jack Baker and Michael McConnell have become nationally known for their recent attempt to have a marriage license issued to them in Minneapolis, Minn.

legal concept of our family structure in all areas of law."

Baker and McConnell attend services at the University of Minnesota's Newman Center Chapel.

One Sunday Baker asked the priest, "Do you feel that if two people give "Straight and gay people both ask why we can't live together quietly and not cause trouble," says Baker. The answer is simple: we want equal rights—whatever heterosexuals have, we want too."

Baker also noted that married people get a tax break and the extra protection of law in matters of inheritance and property. He says, "If I'm going to pay taxes I want the same benefits."

The license was denied on the grounds that issuing licenses to homosexuals would "result in an undermining and destruction of the entire themselves in love to each other and want to grow together with mutual understanding. That Jesus would be open to such a union if the people were of the of the same sex."

The priest hesitated then answered: "Yes, in my opinion, Christ would be open."

In my opinion, I am inclined to agree with the priest. I firmly believe that if two people have a genuine love for each other than he can't the right to condemn it and call it sin.

Who are we to say that it is wrong whether it be two men, two women or a man and a woman? To do so we would have to condemn love also.

The times are a changing and we have to change with them, otherwise we add to the gap existing between those who deviate from the path and the populace of the so-called straight

'Gay Lib' in SLO

Editor's Note:

About a week ago, notices suddenly appeared on campus and in several student housing areas that let the world know that the Gay Liberation Front was indeed alive and well in San Luis Obispo. Interested people were instructed to communicate with GLF leaders by way of an anonymous post office box.. Staffer Phil Graham checked into the GLF story to see if it was fact or fiction and filed this report:

by Phil Graham

Yes Virginia, there is a Gay Liberation Front.

It's right here in this town—on this campus.

Let there be no further questions as to the validity of the organization.

More than a week ago practically every bulletin board on campus bore a sign advertising the GLF. The signs aroused the curiosity of many passer-bys. Some made jokes about GLF but few students really believed that such an organization existed in San Luis Obispo, and indeed, on this campus.

The validity of the signs and thus the validity of the organization were questionable. There was neither a name nor a telephone number where interested persons could contact the GLF for further information. Instead, merely a general delivery address on the downtown downtown post office.

"The anonymous posters are for very obvious reasons," says Robert, president of the San Luis Obispo chapter. "The posters of the GLF interviewed requested that only their first names be used in the Mustang Daily.)

"We are dead serious about our movement, yet we have to use some discretion in advertising the G.L.F. Many people in this conservative community still do not accept the "Gays." We do not enjoy harassment from the "straights" (persons who are not homosexual) and we also must protect ourselves from violent people who do not agree with our way of life."

The San Luis Obispo organization had been in Robert's mind since January 1970. The actual movement in this town was not started until March of this year. "I called the Los Angeles GLF to get an idea on how to start an organization," Robert explained. "The L.A. movement had been in existence for some time and we wanted to model our constitution after theirs."

"GLF in San Luis Obispo is L.A. authorized, but it is not L.A. standardized," Peter was quick to point out. "We do not have political aspirations as do they. Our purpose is also for more than just sexual reasons, we would like to dedicate our lives to service of the community."

When asked what services they would like to perform for the community, Peter adds, for one, there are many elderly people in this city and we could run errands for. We would like to be accepted as human beings and not classified as fags because we prefer a lifestyle that is different

The organization now has about 30 members. They are not necessarily interested in recruiting more members but feel that in an area this size, there are probably 250 to 350 gay people. They would like to give these people a place to go and a place to associate with their own kind.

The GLF has three basic goals: "We would like to perform a service to ourselves, have the community understand us, and serve in a social purpose," adds Robert. "Many people are uneducated about gay people. They consider us to be child molesters or rapists. They think we are diseased or mentally imbalanced. This is a complete misconception. Being gay is a state of mind, we still prefer life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The only basic difference between straights and gays is the choice of partners for sex."

Police harassment? "The police in this town don't give a damn," says Robert. "As long as we stay amongst our own."

Response from the signs that were posted was very gratifying for the gays. Not one letter of protest was received.

As for the future of the organization, Robert says "big stuff" is planned for September and the Fall Quarter.

"We may even pass out a brochure on our organization at registration. Every other club and organization does. We would have already but were leery of some 'bully' taking a punch at us," Robert adds lightly.
